Manuscripts are solicited for Police Practice & Research: An International Journal (PPR) (www.tandf.co.uk/journals or www.ipes.info). PPR is a peer-reviewed, international journal that presents current and innovative academic police research as well as operational and administrative police practices from around the world. Manuscripts are sought from practitioners, researchers, and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere. The journal seeks to bridge the gap in knowledge that exists regarding who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities in the world. Attention will also be focused on specific organizational information about the police in different countries and regions of the world. PPR publishes special issues on various topics of interest. Proposals for such issues are always welcome. The best papers presented at the Annual Meetings of IPES are also published in a special issue. A specific goal of the editors is to improve cooperation between those who are active in the field and those who are involved in academic research. To this end, the editors encourage the submission of manuscripts co-authored by police practitioners and researchers.

Submission of Manuscripts

Manuscripts should be submitted online to the Taylor and Francis website at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/gppr. For assistance, please contact Peen de Guzman at AssociateManagingEditor@ipes.info. Manuscripts should normally be no less than 7,000 words but not to exceed 10,000 words (MS Word, Times New Roman, 12 Font, Double-Spaced) in English.

Manuscripts should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 150 words, up to 6 but no less than 4 key words, and a brief biographical sketch.
